

UNDERSTANDING AMERICAN VIEWPOINTS

ISSUES IMPACTING THE 2018 MIDTERM ELECTIONS

Marc Hetherington and Nicolee Ambrose will offer an in-depth look into the American electorate and the issues motivating voters ahead of the midterm elections

Marc Hetherington is the Raymond Dawson Bicentennial Chair in Political Science at the University of North Carolina – Chapel Hill. He studies the American electorate, with a particular focus on trust in government and the polarization of public opinion. Marc is a past recipient of the Emerging Scholar Award from the Elections, Public Opinion, and Voting Behavior section of the American Political Science Association. He has published more than a dozen articles in a wide range of scholarly journals and also won several college and university teaching awards.

Nicolee Ambrose is a grassroots activist, political commentator, and the statewide elected Republican National Committeewoman for Maryland. In her role, Nicolee represents Maryland to the Republican National Committee, where she is one of three votes from Maryland on issues deciding the future of the national Republican party. She regularly appears on TV shows such as ABC's "Square Off" and mcmmedia's "21 This Week," and has also appeared on BBC Television and BBC World Radio News.

Wednesday, October 24

12:30-1:30 pm

Mount Royal University

EL 4371A

Consulate General of the United States of America
Calgary, Canada

