Welcome to The Social Work Program

The Social Work Program at Mount Royal University (MRU) is pleased to welcome you as a student in the Social Work Diploma program. Thank you for making MRU your choice for post-secondary education.

The Social Work Program office is located in the T-wing of the Mount Royal Lincoln Park Campus on the 3rd floor. Students are encouraged to stop by and meet faculty and staff in person.

It is expected that Social Work students will be familiar with, understand, and adhere to the values and standards outlined in the Canadian Association of Social Workers' Code of Ethics \(2005\) and the Alberta College of Social Workers Standards of Practice \(2023\).

Students also have the option of taking practicum courses, GNED courses, and field schools during the spring and summer terms.

In addition to Social Work (SLWK) course requirements the Social Work program also requires students to complete 4 General Education Courses, 2 Psychology courses and a foundation cluster 4 course (English).

The General Education program at Mount Royal is organized around four thematic clusters which constitute groups or streams of courses. These include:

- Cluster 1 Numeracy and Scientific Literacy
- Cluster 2 Values, Beliefs and Identity
- Cluster 3 Community and Society
- Cluster 4 Communication

Specific information about these clusters is available in the MRU Academic Calendar.

Except for GNED 1401, Diploma students are not required to take foundation level General Education courses. For students planning to complete their degree at other universities, tier 2 or 3 courses generally have established transfer agreements. Students applying to the University of Calgary BSW must ensure all General Education courses transfer to the university.

The Social Work Diploma at Mount Royal University is eligible for transfer credit at the following educational institutions: The University of Calgary, Thompson Rivers University, the University of Victoria, Dalhousie University, and University of Manitoba, Transferability varies across each institution. Students are responsible for ensuring that the courses they take are transferable for the program to which you may apply.

Upon completion of the SLWK Diploma, MRU students may apply for third year entry into the BSW at MRU. Only diploma students who are on track to graduate in June of the year of application will be considered for entry into the BSW. Appli

Social Work Diploma: Core Course Descriptions

SLWK 1114 Introduction to Social Work History, Philosophy and Theory This course provides an introduction to the historical, philosophical, ethical, and theoretical perspectives of social work practice. Factors distinguishing social work practice will be introduced, including social work values, ethics, theories, and models of practice. This course also examines the impact of oppression and marginalization on individuals, children and families, and communities, including the role of social work in contributing to colonization and decolonization in Canada.

SLWK 1187 Social Welfare Policies and Issues

This course is designed to help students become critically aware of the economic, social, and political environment within which they will eventually practice. It will examine the process by which social policy is developed in Canada and encourage reflection upon the ways social workers are influenced by, and in turn can influence, that process. A review and analysis of social problems, policies, and issues as they relate to the delivery and development of appropriate social services will occur. Students will be invited to examine their own values, as well as dominant ideologies present within Canada today.

SLWK 2215 Social Work Assessment and Documentation

This course provides students with an opportunity to develop the knowledge and skills required to gather and evaluate information using a variety of evidence-informed approaches and tools. Integrating an intersectional approach to trauma, family violence, and mental health, students will explore topics including assessment, case planning, goal setting, intervention, evaluation and documentation.

SLWK 2216 Counselling Skills

This experiential course concentrates on the development of interviewing and counselling skills with an emphasis on social work practice with individuals, and children and families. Students will have the opportunity to develop an introductory therapeutic skill set through simulated counselling interviews.

Prerequisite(s): A grade of C or higher in both of INTS 1240 and SLWK 1114.

SLWK 1287 Social Work Practicum I

Social Work Practicum I provides students with an opportunity to experience direct practice with individuals, groups, or communities. Practicum is intended to expose students to the complexity of practice issues related to work in human services and to view social issues from a social work perspective. During this first practicum experience students are expected to integrate learning from their first year courses with a focus on the application of social work skills, values and ethics. Students are challenged to examine how their social location influences their assessments of client situations and their work with clients or client groups. Students are expected to demonstrate a beginning understanding of social work as a distinct profession. Practicum seminars will be delivered using a blended delivery format, including both in-person and online meetings. Accreditation standards require that students are supervised by a Registered Social Worker resulting in tutorials that may be scheduled outside of regular class time.

Prerequisite(s): A grade of C or higher in all of INTS 1240, SLWK 1114, and SLWK 1187.

SLWK 2217 Leadership and Interprofessional Practice in Social Work Organizations Social work organizations require strong and effective leadership. This course will provide students with an understanding of how to lead social service agencies and programs in order to provide a healthy working environment that promotes effective service provision focused on client empowerment. Students will explore topics related to organizational development, program planning, and leadership in nonprofit organizations.

Prerequisite(s): SLWK 1287 or 1296 with a minimum grade of C provision focused on client empowerment.

SLWK 2224 Indigenous Knowledges and Practices in Social Work

This course provides social work students with an introductory understanding of Indigenous ways of knowing and helping. Topics covered include, traditional Indigenous life-ways, worldviews, the role of spirit, significance of relationships, connection to the past, emphasis on community, respect for cultural practices, and the role of Elders within Indigenous helping practices. Students will gain an understanding of the history of social work interventions with Indigenous peoples, including residential schools, the sixties scoop, and strategies for effective engagement and collaboration with Indigenous children, families, and communities.

SLWK 2218 Social Work Knowledge and Skills for Group Work

This course introduces and provides an overview of social work practice with groups through a combination of lectures, observation, and experiential learning. The stages of group development, group roles and norms, facilitation, group design, implementation and evaluation will be addressed. Students will have the opportunity to develop their facilitation skills through participation in group simulations.

Prerequisite(s): A grade of C or higher in SLWK 2216

SLWK 2221 Social Work Practice with Communities

This course provides students with an introduction to community social work practice. The course will address the role of community social work practice in the context of diversity, social change movements, and activism. Students will explore a range of theoretical frameworks for community change and develop skills to work in partnership with diverse communities to create change.

Prerequisite(s): A grade of C or higher in both of SLWK 1114 and SLWK 1187

SLWK 2222 Social Work with Families

This course will focus on social work with family systems. Students will develop an understanding of the interactive, ecological, socioeconomic, and cultural influences on families. Attention will be paid to the impacts of current and historical trauma, engaging families and assessing for strengths, sources of resilience and support, and pathways to change. Students will be introduced to strategies and methods to enhance resilience, safety, connection to community and culture utilizing both formal and natural supports.

Prerequisite(s): A grade of C or higher in both of SLWK 2215 and SLWK 2216

SLWK 2223 Social Work Practice in Addictions and Mental Health

This course provides students with an understanding of the intersectional factors that affect mental health. Students will explore the interactions between mental health, trauma and substance abuse. This will include the impact of intergenerational trauma. Students will explore theories related to addiction and mental health and develop competencies in collaborative case management and intervention across the range of environments in which social workers engage with these areas of practice.

Prerequisite(s): A grade of C or higher in SLWK 2215

SLWK 2297 Social Work Practicum II

Social Work Practicum II builds on the skills and knowledge from Social Work Practicum I with a goal of exposure to and involvement in more complex practice situations. Students integrate social work theories and methods in work with individuals, families, groups, and/or communities. Students are expected to demonstrate social work practice skills related to assessment, shared participation in the client change process, and interventions with a variety of client groups. Reflective practice and a focus on professionalism, social work ethics, and the standards of practice contribute to the continued development of social work identity. Practicum seminars will be delivered using a blended delivery format, including both in-person and online meetings. The Social Work diploma is governed by accreditation standards set by the Alberta College of Social Workers. Accreditation standards require that students are supervised by a Registered Social Worker resulting in tutorials that may be scheduled outside of regular class time.

Prerequisite(s): A grade of C or higher in all of SLWK 1287, SLWK 2218, and SLWK 2222 and a grade of C or higher in one of SLWK 2221 or INTS 3331.

Community Service Learning

INTS 1240 - Fundamentals of Professional Communication

This course provides an introduction and overview to aspects of professional communication. Utilizing a mix of theory and application, the course provides students with opportunities to gain an understanding of the elements of professional communication and demonstrate a foundational level of knowledge and skill of the application of professional communication for use in a variety of settings.

Social Work Diploma Program: Student Leadership Opportunities

To develop leadership skills and contribute to the social work community please consider volunteering for one of the many opportunities available to students in the Social Work Program. Your service within these leadership opportunities helps to ensure the student voice and perspective are heard throughout the university. Interested students are encouraged to contact the Social Work Academic Coordinator.

Alberta College of Social Workers (ACSW) (multiple student opportunities) The ACSW is the regulatory body for the profession of social work in the province of Alberta. Periodically, there are times when the ACSW calls for student members to serve on its committees. For example, each year the ACSW requires student volunteers to assist at the ACSW annual conference.

Faculty of Health, Community and Education, Faculty Council (1 student) The Council normally meets four times each academic year. Among other things, the Council meets to approve new courses, programs, and calendar submissions from the Faculty. Council also devotes some of its meetings to panel discussions on topics of major interest and concern to offer guidance to the Dean and other committees for possible further action. One student from each department within the Faculty of Health & Community Studies is appointed annually by the Dean.

Faculty of Health, Community and Education Scholar's Council (1 student) The council's mission is to foster a culture of scholarship among faculty, staff, and students by developing and funding activities such as the Research and Scholarship Showcase and by supporting and funding conferences, workshops, and symposia. Committee members meet two to three times a year to plan events and review funding applications.

Social Work Advisory Committee

The purpose of this working committee is to help guide the work of the Social Work Program. The committee meets two times per year to discuss course development plans, employment needs from the community, issues and trends impacting the profession, and generally support the social work program and its students. This committee consists of social work agency representatives from across the social service sector, students, an alumni member, the Dean of the Faculty of Health & Community Studies, the Chair of Child Studies and Social Work, and the Social Work Academic Coordinator.

Social Work Students Collective

The social work students' collective is an official club of the Students' Association of Mount Royal University (SAMRU). The collective organizes activist events for social work students as well as social activities. There are five elected/appointed positions including President, Vice President, Treasurer, Secretary, and Events Organizer. In addition, the collective general membership is open to all members of the social work program.

Mount Royal University – Policies and Resources

Students should ensure they are familiar with the policies that govern their participation at MRU and in the Social Work Program. In order to ensure relevance and accuracy, a list of important policies is provided as part of this handbook.

Online links to each policy are provided to assist students in easily and effectively locating the information required. A searchable Policy and Procedures website is also available.

The following are general policies that apply to Social Work students in all courses:

MRU Academic Regulations

Academic regulations are detailed in the MRU Academic Calendar. These policies and regulations govern all staff, faculty, and students at the university. Policies related to grading, exams, assignments, grade appeals etc. can be located here.

Students should also familiarize themselves with the MRU Grades Policy which provides additional detail related to grading and assessment.

MRU Code of Student Community Standards

The Office of Student Community Standards (OSCS) is a resource for students, faculty and staff at Mount Royal University that helps define community standards for academic and personal conduct. The office supports students, community, and campus partners in navigating conflict using various dispute resolution pathways. They also promote the rights and responsibilities of students through the administration of the Code of Student Community Standards and the Code of Student Academic Integrity.

Students are responsible for familiarizing themselves with the Code of Student Community

Standards and the Code of Academic Integrity. Faculty may use anti-plagiarism software to detect incidents of academic misconduct. All incidents of potential academic and non-academic misconduct will be reported to the Office of Student Community Standards.

Academic Misconduct: All MRU students are expected to consistently submit original work, give credit to other peoples' ideas and work, and complete all submissions independently and honestly. Academic Misconduct is any action that is dishonest, misrepresents information, or creates an unfair advantage. Academic misconduct occurs when a student/s misrepresents facts or information and gains an unfair academic advantage over other students. It is the policy of the program to report all instances of academic misconduct. Students should ensure that they are familiar with the policies and processes related to breach of this policy.

Non-Academic Misconduct: MRU students are always held accountable for their personal conduct including when off campus or in practicum. Broadly, non-academic misconduct would include behaviours that potentially threaten the safety or well-being of any member of the MRU community. The MRU Social Work Program holds Social Work students responsible to the Social Work Code of Ethics (CASW) and Standards of Practice (ACSW). Violation of either code could result in course failure or being required to withdraw from the program.

MRU Human Rights Policy

Mount Royal University is committed to creating and maintaining a supportive working and learning environment that is free from discrimination and harassment. In keeping with efforts to establish and maintain an environment in which the dignity and worth of all members of the Mount Royal community are respected, it is the policy of Mount Royal that discrimination and harassment of students, employees, and visitors, to our campus is unacceptable and will not be tolerated.

The fundamental objectives of the Human Rights Policy are to prevent discrimination and harassment on grounds protected by the Alberta Human Rights Act and to provide procedures for handling complaints and remedying situations.

If you encounter or witness discrimination and harassment of any form while at MRU or in practicum, please speak to a faculty member immediately.

MRU Personal Harassment Policy

Mount Royal University is committed to creating a supportive working and learning environment that is free from personal harassment. The MRU Personal Harassment Policy applies to all members of the MRU community and provides resources for defining, reporting and managing situations related to personal harassment.

If you encounter or witness personal harassment of any form while at MRU or in practicum please speak to a faculty member immediately or contact the Office of Safe Disclosure.

Gender Based Violence and Misconduct Prevention and Response Policy

The Gender-Based Violence and Misconduct Prevention and Response Policy represents the University's ongoing efforts to foster a culture of respect and safety, while providing support for those who have been impacted by gender-based violence and misconduct. This policy applies to all members of the Mount Royal University community. Everyone within our community is expected to engage in respectful and consensual interactions and to foster an environment that does not tolerate harmful behaviours. Details on reporting and support options are available through Dating, Domestic and Sexual Violence Services.

Academic Accommodation for Students Experiencing Disabilities Policy and Procedures

MRU is committed to access, equity and inclusion. Access and Inclusion Services assists the University in creating an accessible learning environment that encourages full participation in academic courses for students experiencing disabilities.

Students should familiarize themselves with the Academic Accommodation for Students Experiencing Disabilities Policy and Procedures.

Accommodations are available to registered students with documented conditions who face barriers in the post-secondary environment. Students experiencing a disability are responsible to facilitate an accommodation by contacting a student advisor in the Access and Inclusion Services office. It is the student's responsibility to register with Access and Inclusion Services early in the term and to request academic accommodations if required.

MRU Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy

The personal information that you provide to Mount Royal University including instructors and staff of the social work department is collected under the authority of the Post-Secondary Learning Act and the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act – Section 33(c). The information will be used for the routine administration of the department including reviewing student progress in the social work program and determining or verifying a student's suitability or eligibility for practicum and other benefits. Additionally, disclosed information may be used for the routine administration of Mount Royal academic support services including but not restricted to the Office of Students Community Standards, Student Learning Services, Access and Inclusion Services, Student Counseling, Iniskim Centre, and Academic Advising. Collected personal information is protected from unauthorized access, collection, use and disclosure in accordance with the FOIP act and can be reviewed upon request subject to the provision of the Act. Questions regarding the collection of personal information can be directed to the Academic Director of Social Work.

Social Work Code of Ethics

Social work students are responsible for being familiar with, understanding, and adhering to the values and standards outlined in the Canadian Association of Social Workers' Code of Ethics (2005) and the Alberta College of Social Workers Standards of Practice (2019).

Student misconduct and/or a violation of the Code of Ethics or Standards of Practice could result in a formal referral to the Office of Student Community Standards \(OSCS\), the failure of a course or the requirement to withdraw from the program.

Social Media and Social Work Practice - Program Policy

Students in the social work program, including in practicum, are considered to be practicing social work with the same obligations to the profession, staff and colleagues, practicum agencies and to clients. The use of social media is common, but students need to understand and acknowledge that there are ethical limitations that must be honored.

It is impossible to cover all aspects of personal presence on social media. Be guided by the notion that your public presence is part of who you are as a social worker. If you have questions about this policy, please direct them to the Academic Director for the Social Work Program.

Students should review and be familiar with the Canadian Association of Social Workers (CASW) guidelines on Social Media Use and Social Work Practice. Familiarity with The Alberta College of Social Workers Standards of Practice is encouraged and will assist in ensuring professional behavior.

Social media includes, but is not limited to, platforms such as Facebook, Twitter, TikTok, LinkedIn, Reddit, YouTube, WhatsApp, Instagram, Snapchat, Pinterest, and dozens of other similar sites. It can also include messenger services such as FaceTime, Facebook Messenger, and WhatsApp.

Your personal online presence is part of your professional presence, image, and ethical behavior. Content shared on social media enters the public forum and becomes a public record of events, circumstances, and information about people, yourself, and others.

When entering agency practice for practicum, take time to review and understand the policies and practices your agency has regarding the use of social media. You should engage in discussions with your supervisor around any restrictions that the university has with respect to social media use and explore any areas of concern.

MRU and practicum agencies are bound by Information and Privacy laws and Human Rights Legislation in Alberta. If in doubt about whether information can be shared, it is recommended to not share it until you have clarified that it is permissible to do so. For your purposes as a student, MRU standards and expectations apply even if something is permitted by the agency.

Privacy and Confidentiality:

Client and colleague confidentiality must never be compromised and the posting of any information about a client on social media is prohibited. This includes, but is not limited to

- names or any other potentially identifying information;
- photographs that may include a client, information about a client, including their physical location or a client's involvement with an agency;
- reference to attending an event that may link to a client; and
- having photographs with you, taken by a client for possible publication on their social media.

Professional Boundaries:

- You may not friend a client on any social media platform. This includes the client's family and friends.
- You may not use social media to search for information about a client.
- You may not enter into a social relationship with a client or former client including through social media.
- It is vital to maintain professional boundaries with your online presence.
- You must take steps to block your personal information such as your phone number if you are using personal communication devices for contact with clients
- The privacy policies of agencies must also be respected. This may include such concerns as not posting locations, photos of interiors of facilities or other information that could compromise the privacy and security of clients.
- Posting anything that you think is non-identifying data about an agency, colleague or client may have sufficient information to allow someone to figure out who you are speaking about. Case information should never be posted on social media.
- Your colleagues and Instructors also deserve to have their privacy protected. Remember that they too are connected to clients. Refrain from sharing any information about your colleagues via social media.
- Avoid discussion of the behaviors of clients or colleagues in general or specifically.
- Posting about student colleagues is also not permitted, and shows a lack of professionalism. What occurs in class, class assignments, course group work or other course related materials should not be shared via social media.
- Sharing photographs or recordings of students or class activities are subject to requirements of formal consent, for which you do not have authority. Students have the right to anticipate privacy of their information when shared in class and course situations. Refrain from sharing any information about your students or class activities via social media.

Taking Proactive Steps:

- Ensure that your privacy settings on social media are such that it is unlikely that a client will be able to search and find your personal information.
- Review your content in public forums to remove information that would compromise your position as a social worker.
- Be cautious about what you post and share. As a social worker, you need to be careful about posting information via social media.

Breaches of Policy:

Breaches of this policy will be brought to the attention of the Academic Director for Social Work. Students breaching these policies may be reported to the Office of Community Standard and subject to course failure, or requirement to withdraw from the program.

Social Work Program – Academic Performance Requirements

Policies related to continuance in the Social Work Program are outlined in the MRU Academic Calendar.

In matters of progression and continuance, there are instances in addition to institutional processes when a student may be required to withdraw from a program. These circumstances are:

- Violations of a professional code of ethics and/or standards of practice. A committee established by the program will assess violations of relevant codes and standards and whether the student will be required to withdraw from the program based on the seriousness of the violation.
- Students who are unsuccessful after two registrations in the same core course (as defined by the program) will be required to withdraw from the program. This includes, but is not limited to, the following examples of unsuccessful registration:
 - Students who do not achieve the minimum required grade (as defined by program) in one or both registrations;
 - Students who earn a grade of “F” in one or both registrations; and
 - Students who withdraw from the course with a “W” in one or both registrations.

- Students who are denied a practicum placement by an external stakeholder because of an assessed detrimental impact on the client, client group, or community being served. Students who are unable to meet clinical or field course requirements on this basis will be required to withdraw from the program.

Appeal Process for the “Requirement to Withdraw from Program” (RTWP)

Students may appeal a “Requirement to Withdraw from Program” decision on two grounds:

- medical illness or severe emotional distress which was not previously known, or
- extenuating circumstances not previously known.

Complete an appeal form for the “Requirement to Withdraw from Program” (RTWP) which is available from the Chair’s Office. The appeal form must include a letter describing the reason/grounds for appeal. If the reason is medical illness or severe emotional distress, the appeal must be accompanied by documentation from a Mount Royal counsellor or other certified health care professional. If the reason is other extenuating circumstances, then relevant information must be attached. An appeal will not be considered without supporting documentation.

- At the end of the semester or course, in which the student meets the conditions to be required to withdraw from the program, the Coordinator, Practicum and Advising, will send an email alerting the student of the requirement. A letter from the Chair will follow confirming the requirement to withdraw from the program.
- The letter from the Chair will be considered the official notification of the requirement to withdraw from the program. The letter will be sent by registered mail/courier and by email.
- Students have two weeks (10 business days) from the date on the Chair’s letter to file the appeal.
- Students may continue to attend classes until a decision is made regarding the appeal, except in the following circumstance. Students will not be permitted to remain registered in program specific courses pending the outcome of the appeal, if the reason for appeal was:
 - a. Violations of a professional code of ethics and/or standards of practice
 - b. Denial of a practicum placement by an external stakeholder because of an assessed detrimental impact on the client, client group, or community being served.
- The Dean or Director, who is the Chair of the Appeal Committee, will decide based on the documentation whether to convene a committee to review the appeal.
- The Appeal Committee will review the documentation and determine the need for further information from the student, faculty, or other relevant sources.

Appeal Deadlines “Requirement to Withdraw from Program (RTWP)

- Students must submit the appeal within 10 business days of the date on the Chair’s letter.

- The Chair of the Appeal Committee will determine within one week (5 business days) of submission of the appeal if a committee will hear the appeal. Notification of this decision will be sent to the student by email.
- If the Appeal Committee is convened, they will meet within two weeks or 10 business days of the submission of the appeal.
- Students will be informed of the outcome of the appeal within one week (5 business days) of the Appeal Committee's meeting regarding their decision. Notification will be by email to the student's MRU account, followed by a letter sent by registered mail or courier.

Appeal Committee Membership

- A representative from the Dean's or Director's office will act as chair of the Appeal Committee
- Two (2) faculty members, appointed by the Chair of the Appeal Committee, from the Department or School
- One (1) faculty member from the Faculty of Health and Community Studies
- One (1) student from programs belonging to the Faculty of Health and Community Studies, but not from the same program as the student who is appealing the RTWP
- One (1) student representative from SAMRU executive or designate
- A representative from clinical practice will serve as a resource when the case involves professional/ethical issues
- Academic advisors will serve as resources

Students who are appealing an RTWP are entitled to support and assistance from the SAMRU Student Advocacy Resource Centre.

Social Work Program – Practicum Requirements

Policies related to practicum requirements in the Social Work program are outlined in the MRU Academic Calendar and the BSW Work Practicum Manual. All students will be selected for practicum on the basis of academic performance, professional suitability, and availability of practicum sites.

A student may be prohibited from attending or completing a practicum if there is evidence to suggest that the student's physical and/or psychological health may be detrimental to client care.

At the time of practicum, students will be required, at their own expense, to obtain a Police Information Check. It is each practicum agency's decision to accept or reject a student for placement or observation experience based upon the results of police information or other background checks. Students must have their police information check approved by their practicum agency.

Since both completion of course requirements and eventual employment in a field of study may be dependent upon the results of such checks, students who have concerns should discuss the matter with the Academic Director or designate prior to applying for admission.

Student Resources

There are times in your university career that can be made better by accessing some of the free services provided to students. Listed below are a few of the key programs that will benefit you. Links to each of these programs are embedded in the title to make it easy for you to connect to the services you need quickly and effectively

Dating, Domestic and Sexual Violence Services

Specialized services and support are available for those who have been impacted by dating, domestic and sexual violence. Support is available to any MRU student regardless of when or where the violence occurred. There is no obligation to report. DDSV Services can help with navigating resources both on and off-campus, accessing academic accommodations, safety planning, exploring options and coping strategies; understanding reporting options, making a report to MRU, and supporting someone in your life who has been affected by dating, domestic and/or sexual violence.

The MRU Office of Safe Disclosure

The Office of Safe Disclosure provides a range of services related to equity, human rights, discrimination, and other safe disclosure concerns. Students, staff, faculty and all other members of the Mount Royal community are all welcome to access these services. When you connect with the Safe Disclosure Office, you can expect to have your concerns heard in a confidential, safe, and neutral space. Your personal information, as well as reasons for reaching out, will remain confidential except where required by law or where there is a risk of significant harm to anyone's health or safety.
