

Interim Lead
Centre for Social Impact Tech

Megan Davidson

Megan Davidson (she/her) is a Social Innovation Projects Assistant with the Institute for Community Prosperity. Megan was one of the youngest graduates of the 2-year Baking and Pastry Arts program at SAIT at 17 and earned her Red Seal in baking at 20. She is in her final year of a Criminal Justice degree at Mount Royal University where her work is focused on reforming prison systems worldwide through systems thinking and multidisciplinary application of urban design elements in correctional environments to affect positive behaviour changes in inmates and is published in the areas of asymmetrical Indigenous parole conditions. Her background is in Crime Prevention Through Environmental Design (CPTED), counterterrorism, data management and administration.