Functional Literacy & Math

Working with an instructor, you will create your own goals, based on your interests and strengths. You'll improve your reading and writing and confidence in speaking. You'll also improve your ability to use math in your daily life.

You will use appropriate technology to express your ideas in this small group setting.

When you finish this course, you will:

- » Have increased money management skills
- » Have improved reading and writing skills and be able to choose and use appropriate technology to express yourself
- » Know more about community resources and how you can use them

More Than Just a Class

- ❖ Meet new people and build a social network
- ❖ Take part in interactive learning activities
- ❖ Experience campus life at Mount Royal University

The courses offered by TVP are instrumental in teaching our son important skills such as math and literacy. These core skills are essential in allowing him to be a participating member of society, to become more independent and to lead an inclusive life. The teachers and the quality of teaching is top notch.
